📈 Stock News Sentiment Classifier

Enter stock ticker (e.g., SBUX)

SBUX

Get News and Sentiment Classification

Fetching news for SBUX...

Classifying sentiment using Ollama (first 10 headlines)...

📰 News Headlines with Sentiment

	Date	Title	Sentiment
0	2025-10-31	starbucks ceo brian niccol rules out a value menu as chain revamps	⚪ Neutra
1	2025-10-31	earnings live: amazon stock soars, apple pares gains with earnings from ai players to	⚪ Neutra
2	2025-10-31	sbux q4 earnings sees first global comp growth in seven quarters	🟢 Positiv
3	2025-10-31	what's brewing for starbucks after mixed q4 earnings? etfs in focus	⚪ Neutra
4	2025-10-31	earnings live: amazon stock soars, apple ceo predicts 'best-ever' quarter; exxon, chev	🟢 Positiv
5	2025-10-31	chipotle struggles as customers skip the guac	🔴 Negati
6	2025-10-30	analyst explains why he's bullish on starbucks (sbux), says ceo brian niccol's plan is w	🟢 Positiv
7	2025-10-30	earnings live: amazon stock soars, apple ceo predicts 'best-ever' holiday quarter, red	🟢 Positiv
8	2025-10-30	earnings live: amazon stock soars on aws growth, apple wavers, reddit and coinbase	🟢 Positiv
9	2025-10-30	starbucks is carrying out a major revamp. there are signs it's working.	🟢 Positiv

💬 Sentiment Classification and Justification:

Headline: starbucks ceo brian niccol rules out a value menu as chain revamps

Sentiment: Neutral

Justification: Justification: The headline does not express a positive or negative tone, but rather reports on a factual decision made by Starbucks' CEO. It simply states that Brian Niccol has ruled out introducing a value menu, without expressing any opinion or emotion about it.

Headline: earnings live: amazon stock soars, apple pares gains with earnings from ai players to come

Sentiment: Neutral

Justification: Justification: The headline is simply reporting on the performance of Amazon's stock and Apple's stock in response to their respective earnings reports. It doesn't express a clear opinion or emotion, nor does it contain sensational or emotive language. The use of phrases like "soars" and "pares gains" are objective descriptions rather than emotional appeals. Overall, the headline presents a factual summary of the market reaction to the earnings reports without taking a stance or evoking a particular sentiment.

Headline: sbux q4 earnings sees first global comp growth in seven quarters

Sentiment: Positive

Justification: Justification: The use of "first global comp growth" implies that the company, Starbucks (SBUX), has achieved a significant milestone. Additionally, the fact that it's been seven quarters since they experienced such growth suggests that the company was able to break through a period of stagnation or decline. This achievement is likely to be met with optimism and positivity, hence the classification as a positive sentiment headline.

Headline: what's brewing for starbucks after mixed q4 earnings? etfs in focus

Sentiment: Neutral

Justification: Justification: The headline is simply reporting on Starbucks' Q4 earnings and mentioning ETFs (Exchange-Traded Funds) as a related topic, without expressing any clear positive or negative sentiment. It's more of an informative title than an opinion piece, which justifies its classification as Neutral.

Headline: earnings live: amazon stock soars, apple ceo predicts 'best-ever' quarter; exxon, chevron post strong earnings

Sentiment: Positive

Justification: Justification: The headline mentions that Amazon's stock "soars", which indicates a significant increase in value, implying good news for the company. Additionally, Apple's CEO predicting their quarter will be their "best-ever" suggests optimism and confidence. Finally, Exxon and Chevron posting strong earnings implies positive financial performance for these companies. Overall, the tone of the headline is upbeat and highlights successful outcomes for several major companies.

Headline: chipotle struggles as customers skip the guac

Sentiment: Negative

Justification: Justification: The use of the word "struggles" implies that Chipotle is experiencing difficulties, which has a negative connotation. Additionally, the phrase "customers skip the guac" suggests that customers are not choosing to buy Chipotle's signature item (guacamole), which is likely a significant contributor to their struggles. Overall, the tone of the headline is critical and suggests that something is going wrong for Chipotle, which makes it a negative sentiment.

Headline: analyst explains why he's bullish on starbucks (sbux), says ceo brian niccol's plan is working

Sentiment: Positive

Justification: Justification: The headline mentions being "bullish" on Starbucks, which is a positive sentiment. Additionally, the fact that an analyst is praising CEO Brian Niccol's plan as "working" suggests a positive outlook for the company, indicating that the sentiment of this headline is overall positive.

Headline: earnings live: amazon stock soars, apple ceo predicts 'best-ever' holiday quarter, reddit and coinbase rise

Sentiment: Positive

Justification: Justification: The use of the word "soars" to describe Amazon's stock performance is a strong indicator of positivity. Additionally, Apple CEO's prediction of having its "best-ever" holiday quarter implies optimism and confidence in the company's future performance. Finally, the mention of Reddit and Coinbase rising suggests that other companies or industries are also performing well, reinforcing the overall positive tone of the headline.

Headline: earnings live: amazon stock soars on aws growth, apple wavers, reddit and coinbase move higher

Sentiment: Positive

Justification: Justification: The headline uses the word "soars", which implies a significant increase in Amazon's stock price. Additionally, it mentions that other companies like Reddit and Coinbase are moving higher, indicating a positive trend in the market. The use of words like "surges" and "moves higher" creates a sense of excitement and optimism, further supporting the classification as Positive.

Headline: starbucks is carrying out a major revamp. there are signs it's working.

Sentiment: Positive

Justification: Justification: The use of the word "revamp" implies that Starbucks is taking steps to improve or innovate, which is generally considered a positive thing. Additionally, the phrase "there are signs it's working" suggests that the changes being made are having a positive impact, implying that the company is moving in the right direction. Overall, the tone of the headline is optimistic and indicates that good things are happening at Starbucks.